USDF Dressage Development Program at Lindinhof Equine Sports Zentrum:

It's a Wrap!

Megan McIsaac here with the final installment of our series on the USDF Dressage Development Program! If you haven't read my first two articles, I have had the honor of hosting the full series of USDF Instructor Certification Seminars this year at my farm, Lindinhof Equine Sports Zentrum, in Oregon, WI.

I previously participated in the former format of the Instructor Workshops and mock testing, and ultimately became a USDF Certified Instructor through Fourth Level. That original program was instrumental in shaping me into the organized, thoughtful instructor I am today. After hosting the new seminars, I truly believe the revamped program has evolved into an even stronger system—one that welcomes anyone passionate about learning and helps standardize dressage education across the United States. As a result, I feel it's time to give back to the sport through hosting and promoting this updated Instructor Program, and encourage more instructors and trainers to join this exceptional pathway!

About the Seminar Series

The series consists of three two-day seminars, each focused on a pillar of instruction:

- Riding
- Teaching
- Lungeing

Day 1 of each seminar includes a morning classroom session featuring PowerPoints, videos, educational materials and a comprehensive booklet. The afternoon is devoted to live demonstrations led by the faculty.

Day 2 is a closed session that focuses on the development of the Participating Instructors (PIs). Each PI demonstrates their knowledge through an initial assessment, followed by a 20–25-minute practical teaching segment, and concludes with a final assessment. They are evaluated on safety procedures, use of terminology, understanding of the Training Pyramid and overall professional demeanor. The environment is supportive and educational, featuring productive dialogue between faculty and instructors. Learning happens in both directions.

Our Faculty Leaders

Our faculty for this year's seminars were Ann Guptill and Bailey Cook. Both are USDF Certified Instructors through Fourth Level, USDF medalists, and competitors at both national and international levels. They each operate successful training businesses and generously shared their knowledge and experience with participants.

Inside the Lungeing Seminar

The classroom portion of the lungeing seminar was divided into two sections: Lungeing the Horse and Lungeing the Rider.

We explored:

- Goals and objectives
- Safety considerations
- The Training Pyramid
- Assessment of the horse

- What to observe while lungeing
- Suitability of horses for specific work
- Warm-up strategies for horse and rider
- Position, alignment and corrections
- Exercises to improve balance, suppleness and independence of seat and hands

We also reviewed and discussed videos on both horse lungeing and seat lessons.

After a wonderful lunch, Ann demonstrated lungeing techniques with four horses. The first two sessions focused on lungeing horses:

- An older, large Grand Prix warmblood gelding whose gaits, topline, transitions and balance were evaluated.
- A spicy pony whose equipment needs differed from the warmblood, offering a great comparison—especially in fitting cavessons (including two that Ann brought, which came in handy!).

The final two demonstrations were seat lessons, taught to two of my students on our school horses. It was a pleasure to watch another instructor work with my riders, and I was proud of both the students and the horses. Together, we examined where to begin with a seat-focused lesson—pelvis, legs, arms, shoulders—and discussed the instructor's decision-making process: what to address, how to approach it and why.

In the photo below, Ann encouraged instructors to recommend unmounted stretches before students

mount their horse for their lesson. Here the students stand in alignment, while they bend their knee at a 90 degree angle and push their leg from knee to foot into the wall. For me this stretched my outer hip, shin, upper foot and ankle. They can also do stretches on the mounting block. What is good for the horse, is good for the rider!

Reflections on Teaching and Learning

Not every lesson goes exactly as planned. Some achieve the desired result, but the question remains: Did the student understand the what, the how and the why? Every instructor brings their own background and experience, and these seminars offer a valuable opportunity to learn from one another, make connections and build a shared standard for teaching and training that is logical, consistent and supportive—especially when we are working independently.

Gratitude

Thank you to USDF for continuing to improve this outstanding program and encouraging instructors to pursue certification. This pathway has supported me from my early days as a young professional through my current role as a seasoned, certified instructor.

Thank you to everyone who helped make our series a success: Kathie Roberston at USDF, Ann Guptill and Bailey Cook, Karen and Anne, AV and Mumsie, Lisa for the amazing lunches and snacks, Derek for the setup and projector, the PIs and auditors, my student and, of course, last but not least, my amazing school horses!

I hope riders, instructors, GMO members and hosts alike will take part in the USDF Development Programs and continue growing our sport together.

President's Message

For the next short while (I hope!) you'll be hearing from me as WDEA president and as newsletter editor. Wish you didn't have to hear from me in twice as many ways as you have been when I was only the newsletter editor, but as the French say, "C'est la Vie!" ("That's life")—at least for the time being, until a volunteer steps forward to take over the newsletter. However, to spare you, I won't write two columns (one as WDEA president and the other as the newsletter editor). I'll come to you each month (if that's how often our newsletter continues to be distributed) as the president, with newsletter information sprinkled in.

Challenges and the Future

I've noticed especially since the Covid pandemic, volunteer-driven organizations in all areas of interest, not just dressage-related, are having challenges—from fewer members to fewer volunteers. I get it. Lower household incomes affect the affordability for many sports and hobby enthusiasts, consumers have become more cautious with their expenses because jobs aren't as readily available, and groceries, rent and other living expenses have increased. That means less available funds for our passion. It means price increases in board, training, shows, horse sale prices, feed, supplements, tack—the list goes on. Even membership dues for many organizations have increased (except for WDEA's—a deliberate decision by our board).

But in every cloud, there is a silver lining.

Perhaps you need to tighten your belt at this time, but maybe WDEA, as our local dressage and eventing community, can help you still achieve some personal goals with your horse. We have scholarships available and, if people step up to volunteer, perhaps we can host more educational activities to bridge the gap—with WDEA providing some funding. Perhaps some trainers can write an article on a training aspect that they see in their professional life that could be helpful, or another member with a special skill could write an article or offer to do an educational presentation in their local area. Currently, the Eastern Chapter is working hard to develop an educational and fun annual meeting and awards banquet in March at an area resort/conference center—and they're working hard to keep costs as reasonable as possible. What a great getaway that will be, considering how Wisconsin was hit with snow and cold so early this year!

I'm grateful I was still able to go to Florida this winter season with my horses. I already have three January events I plan to report to you in this newsletter: (1) a Masterclass event with Kyra Kyrklund, Jan Brink and Catherine Dufour; (2) a panel with two 5* judges, Anne Gribbons and Cesar Torrente, with coaching of riders and horses by Olympian Lars Petersen; and (3) a panel discussion with Ali Brock, Christoph Koschel, Adrienne Lyle and Lars Petersen.

In addition, if I have a lightbulb moment in one of my riding lessons or when I'm scribing at Global, I'll share it. I encourage all members—from trainers to students—to do the same. An insightful quote, an observation, riding or horse management tip, photograph or interview with your trainer or a rider: these page are your pages, and it's a way our WDEA community can help each other during these "girth tightening" economic times. Send your newsletter submissions to newsletter@Widressage.org. If you have thoughts, concerns or suggestions for WDEA as our organization, send to president@Widressage.org, and please fill out the WDEA member survey.

If you mix up the president/newsletter emails, no worries—I know the person it should be forwarded to!

Country View Equestrian Estates

Editor's Note: I met Madeleine VonFrankenberg a few years ago at a show, where she, like me, was being coached by WDEA member and FEI rider, Shelly Reichart. This winter, she's taking a horse for an intensive six weeks of training in Ocala, FL and hopes to show at the World Equestrian Center. She has agreed to do an interview after that six weeks and cover what it was like to take a break from the Wisconsin winter, her job and their family's farm, Country View Equestrian Estates.

Madeleine was recently featured in the USDF "My Dressage" e-newsletter, which I'm sharing below. For more interesting stories, visit yourdressage.org.

From Homebred Hopeful to Bronze Medal Partner

My Journey with Monet's Masterpiece

By Madeleine VonFrankenberg

The journey to earning my USDF Bronze Medal has been a dream many years in the making. In fact, it began before I ever imagined riding down centerline.

My parents bred Monet's Masterpiece when I was young, with the hope that he would one day become a promising dressage horse. Born and raised on our family farm, my focus was primarily on eventing, and naturally, that's where Monet and I started our partnership.

Together, we found success at the lower levels, earning recognition and awards within the United States Eventing Association (USEA)'s Area IV. Yet even during our eventing days, Monet's talent for dressage stood out. He always seemed to shine brightest in the dressage arena; he was focused, expressive and proud of his work. Over time, it became clear that he wanted to be a full-time dressage horse, and I decided to listen.

Transitioning from eventing to dressage was both exciting and humbling. There were plenty of ups and downs, moments of frustration, and lessons in patience. Monet has always been a horse with opinions, immensely intelligent, and sometimes challenging, but he has also been my greatest teachers. He's taught me the importance of feel, timing and consistency.

After years of training and learning together, all of our efforts culminated this August when Monet and I achieved our USDF Bronze Medal. Reaching that milestone with my homebred partner made the accomplishment even more meaningful. It wasn't just about the medal; it was about the journey, the relationship, and the years of growth we've shared.

Looking ahead, our next goal is to earn our USDF Silver Medal. We'll be heading to Ocala, Florida, this winter to continue training and showing, as we keep building toward that dream. I know we still have much to learn, but I'm grateful for every moment we've shared on our journey together.

Monet may have started as my parents' hopeful young prospect, but he's become so much more—my teacher, my partner, my best friend, my rock, and the horse who's made my lifelong dressage goals a reality.

Two WDEA Volunteer Opportunities

Member-at-Large (MAL) - (1 position)

Here's a way to get involved to help encourage the interest, organizing and awareness of educational and social opportunities within WDEA! We need an individual to represent their area to encourage the organization of clinics, special events and fun gatherings to further the interest in dressage (both Traditional and Western), sport horse breeding and eventing. This position means being a liaison between the needs of riders and enthusiasts in your area and the WDEA board to help organize and secure financial help for activities from WDEA or guidance to apply for grants from The Dressage Foundation.

We especially need representation from north central and northwestern Wisconsin and Upper Peninsula of Michigan. If you feel like you're "alone" in your areas, that's an even better reason to volunteer—you can help get things rolling! Plus, you're not really alone because there are board members and many members who can help guide you and your area in organizing activities.

Your MAL volunteer activities include, but are not limited to:

- Attend the Board of Directors' meetings held approximately three to four times a year (usually by teleconference, so very little travel to these meetings is required),
- Represent your members' needs and interests in your area and on the board,
- Serve as a chair of committees, as needed.

Newsletter Editor

Do you enjoy writing, editing and doing design work for publications like a newsletter? Do you want to put your skills to use to keep members informed, educated and even entertained about what's going on with dressage and eventing in Wisconsin, as well as what's happening on the national level with the USDF? Here's the answer: WDEA needs a newsletter editor.

Responsibilities:

- Write articles as necessary, solicit and coordinate other editorial including stories, calendar and advertising submissions, and manage layout, production and online distribution of the newsletter.
- Make judgments on editorial submissions that are in keeping with news and not business promotions, unless article is, for example, a profile of a member and his/her business. Bring any questionable submissions to the board's attention, prior to publishing.
- Work closely with the WDEA webmaster on shared website content as well as our Facebook pages.
- Serve on the WDEA board of directors.

Interested or have questions about either position? Contact our WDEA President (president@Wldressage.org) or any board member via the WDEA website contact page. We look forward to hearing from you!

Must be comfortable producing an electronic newsletter (created in Word or some other design program), then converting the finished piece to a PDF and distributing it to members via email.

Member of the Year Nominations Due

Do you know a member who has helped organize events or activities, volunteered for work on the state or chapter level, offered their home or facility time and time again for local events or has shown some extra effort on behalf of WDEA?

Then nominate them for Member of the Year. This annual award is given to a member who has made a difference in WDEA by furthering the sports of dressage and/or eventing and supported WDEA's educational mission. The WDEA state board votes on the members submitted prior to our annual conference.

Send your nomination to the state board secretary (secretary@Wldressage.org) by February 1. It's so important to recognize members who make a difference.
