President's Message

We had our first state board meeting of the year, and I'm impressed by the commitment, professionalism, enthusiasm and ideas already bubbling out of the board. Our meeting was nearly two hours long, but we made a lot of solid administrative decisions that will help us function efficiently and effectively.

Annual Meeting and Awards Banquet: Great Location, Interesting Speakers and a Silent Auction!

We heard from Jessica Kazmarek and Nicole Trapp about the plans for our Annual Meeting and Awards Banquet March 14, which sounds not only educational for riders, but also fun. All the details are on the first two pages of this newsletter. I hope you'll attend and help by donating to the silent auction or bidding on items—or both! Contact Jessica or Nicole if you have something to donate.

Caryn Vesperman Editor

All advertisements, articles and photographs should be submitted by the 15th of the preceding month of publication, unless prior arrangements are made for additional time.

Calendar of events will appear in both the eQuester and on the WDEA website.

Payment should be submitted via PayPal through the WDEA website (newsletter@Widressage.org) or mailed to the editor with a check made out to WDEA.

Back to the board meeting....

We had to quickly move through some topics and never had a chance to review the results from our member survey, but we will tackle that at our February board meeting. From a preliminary review, I saw some good ideas and suggestions from members, so we'll be looking over the responses and deciding what we can tackle. The results will be shared at the annual conference/awards banquet, as well as in the April newsletter for all the membership to view.

Newsletter Content

As you've heard from me ad nauseam, I'm always begging for submissions to the newsletter. I try to give you educational content that I run across, but I do get sick of seeing my words in here. I want your submissions. Don't be shy! Share by sending in your riding stories (humorous or serious), riding insights, barn maintenance tips, tack reviews, clinic reviews, photos (like Diane Brault's winter horse scenes in this issue)—you decide!

Starting in the next newsletter, board members will be sharing their profiles and photos of themselves and their horses so you become familiar with them and their dedication to WDEA and you.

Send your newsletter submissions to newsletter@Widressage.org. If you have thoughts, concerns or suggestions for WDEA as our organization, send to president@Widressage.org,

Until next month...keep your heels down and head up with eyes forward! (I had a trainer/judge tell me, "We might as well donate your eyes to science, because you don't use them!") (Well, that wasn't completely true—I find looking at my horse's withers fascinating!)

Stay warm!

Caryn

International Judges Provide Commentary at Helgstrand Dressage Annual Open House

By Caryn Vesperman

International judge, Anne Gribbons, and newly appointed 5* judge, Cesar Torrente, provided commentary for 10 dressage sale horses (one was already sold), ranging from age 6- to 10-years-old at the Helgstrand Farm, Wellington, FL Jan. 6.

All the horses were high-quality and in the six-figure stratosphere for sale price! More than 200 people attended the free event which included, besides the drool-worthy horses, food and an open bar.

Horses were brought in one or two at a time, with Gribbons and Torrente commenting on their movement, what they'd score the horses and what they'd like to see improved in the riding presentation. Being top judges, they commented on a couple of horses who were ridden too short in the neck and made suggestions on how to open up their topline and get them to swing even more through their backs. These horses had way-above average gaits and to see the difference when they were freer and more supple was very educational. To be fair, some of the horses were very green in an environment with 200 people sitting around the arena, and I very much appreciated how these riders (all women!) bravely handled the power, tension and/or exuberance.

Regarding tension, Torrente commented on how the judges panel in the young horse classes focus on the quality of the gaits and aren't hard on the 4-, 5- and 6-year-olds when they first start their tests. They give them some time early on to settle in to the electric test atmosphere. However, if they don't show any improvement in relaxation and are "on the muscle" throughout the test, it is reflected in the final score.

What specifically do judges look for when evaluating gaits in general for all tests? First and foremost is rhythm. Are all three gaits clear in the rhythm. A tense walk that goes out of the four-beat rhythm can really kill the score in a dressage test.

Second: relaxation: does it improve if nervous at the beginning? Does the horse get more relaxed over the topline? If not, the horse may be penalized in both the specific movement and submission. Third, the judges evaluate cadence and expression.

Judges also agreed that transitions are critical—within gaits and between movements. This shows balance and submission. Transitions show correct communication.

Around age eight, both judges indicated that this is when the work to create the topline is really evident. If the development is not done correctly, it will cause big problems that will be difficult to correct.

Other training gems:

- * Stretching during the work equals a reward.
- * Horses need to learn self-carriage by the rider letting go. You can't ride correctly or have the horse be correct if you hold the horse up with your hands.
- * Along that line, it's very important in the medium and extended trot movements that riders allow the neck to stretch out and the horse demonstrate self-carriage. These movements are not “run the horse off its feet.”

- * In the piaffe, the horse must trust that it's allowed to go forward. Even in a seasoned horse, don't stay in the piaffe too long.

Gribbons and Torrente cautioned riders to be careful of their own ambitions. The horse has to be emotionally ready to move on to the next step, and not push the horse just because it appears to be physically able.

A Few Notes from Rood & Riddle Customer Education Event

By Caryn Vesperman

This two-hour presentation was very complex, so these notes are at a very high level because I'm worried I might get the details incorrect, which won't help you or your horse.

On Connection Issues and Equine Teeth

- Horses' teeth grow 3 to 5 millimeters a year. (A millimeter is about the thickness of a credit card.)
- Some cases of equine head shaking are due to a tooth growing into a nerve in the horse's jaw.

Solving the Puzzle of Neck Pain

- Foraminotomy is a new spine surgery that widens the openings where spinal nerves are compressed from excessive bone. It involves a small incision, a hospital stay of 2-3 days and rehab of around six weeks. It was first used on horses in 2021 and has a 70-80% success rate.
- Horses present with lameness, neck pain, behavioral changes, neurological issues, and/or riding problems.
- Only 12 U.S. veterinary hospitals are performing foraminotomies.

Pregnancy Options

- Mare pregnancy can happen three ways:
  - a mare can carry her own pregnancy,
  - an embryo transfer (a fertilized egg is flushed and then inserted in a recipient mare), and
  - OPU (Ovum Pick Up).
- OPU is essentially what is known as IVF—the ultrasound-guided retrieval of eggs (oocytes), which are fertilized in a lab, and then either frozen or transferred to a recipient mare. The embryos can be stored with liquid nitrogen for long periods. At this time, unfertilized equine eggs (oocytes) do not freeze well.
- OPU is useful for mares that are competing, have reproductive difficulties, are older mares that can't carry a foal to term, and stallions with low fertility, as the lab uses one sperm per oocyte.
- Retrieving eggs can be done at any time, whether the mare is or is out of heat. Takes two to three aspiration sessions to retrieve eggs.
- Oocyte recovery rate is 55-60%.
- Oocyte maturity rate to make fertilizing successful: 60%.
- Once a fertilized egg is transferred to a recipient, the chance of a pregnancy is around 80%.

WDEA Volunteer Opportunity: Newsletter Editor

Do you enjoy writing, editing and doing design work for publications like a newsletter? Do you want to put your skills to use to keep members informed, educated and even entertained about what's going on with dressage and eventing in Wisconsin, as well as what's happening on the national level with the USDF? Here's the answer: WDEA needs a newsletter editor.

Responsibilities:

- Write articles as necessary, solicit and coordinate other editorial including stories, calendar and advertising submissions, and manage layout, production and online distribution of the newsletter.

- Make judgments on editorial submissions that are in keeping with news and not business promotions, unless article is, for example, a profile of a member and his/her business. Bring any questionable sub-missions to the board's attention, prior to publishing.
- Work closely with the WDEA webmaster on shared website content as well as our Facebook pages.
- Serve on the WDEA board of directors.

Must be comfortable producing an electronic newsletter (created in Word or some other design program), then converting the finished piece to a PDF and distributing it to members via email.

Interested or have questions about the position? Email: president@Wldressage.org.
